

The Emin Way Presents...

Principles:

The Glue that Binds us to Our Purpose

There is a popular saying... "If you don't stand for something, you will fall for anything."

Falling for anything describes an aimless, drifting life, a life that is not likely to have much success in achieving goals or fulfilling one's purpose.

Adherence to our chosen values and to that which gives our lives meaning provides the traction we need for growth and movement.

You are invited to join us on Sunday as we spend time identifying and working to develop and refine our principles... a most critical human attribute.
